6 new members inducted into MCHS Hall of Fame

BY BOB DEMAREE

Madison Consolidated High School inducted six new members into the school's Alumni Hall of Fame — Ray Black Jr., Helen Cope, Marvin Eades, Harold Hunt, Rodney Nay and Damon Welch — at a ceremony on Friday morning at the school.

"These are six amazing people who set an example for all of us," said Madison Consolidated Schools Superintendent Dr. Jeffrey Studebaker.

Due to COVID-19, there was no induction ceremony last year, and because of that Friday's ceremony included inductees from both the Class of 2020 and the Class of 2021.

Requirements for eligibility are that recipients must have graduated from MCHS at least 10 years ago, been recognized for a high level of achievement in their field, and demonstrated leadership, character and service in a variety of venues.

Cope, Eades and Welch make up the Class of 2020 while Black, Hunt and Nay are inductees for the Class of 2021.

The plaque for Damon L. Welch, mayor of Madison from 2012 until his unexpected death at age 66 in September of 2019, was accepted by his wife, Ginny Welch, a 1971 MCHS graduate. She said her husband served the city as "a labor of love ... He never set out on his life's journey to be Mayor of Madison" but that his previous

Jefferson County reports COVID-19 increases

Health officials say no new positive tests reported at jail

BY BOB DEMAREE

In the wake of Jefferson County's shift back to an "Orange" COVID-19 advisory on Wednesday, the county saw an increase of 29 cases on Friday after reporting 45 on Thursday.

Two weeks ago, Jefferson County moved to a "Yellow" advisory, which indicates moderate community spread, after several weeks in a "Blue" advisory, which indicates low community spread. The current "Orange" advisory is indication that community spread is approaching high levels.

The Jefferson County Health Department said earlier this week that the county

Custer Contest returns to Sherman Auditorium

BY BOB DEMAREE

The distinguished Madison Consolidated High School oratorical tradition of the Custer Contest returns Sunday at 2 p.m. as an in-person event at Opal E. Sherman Auditorium after being held virtually last year for the first time ever due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Sebastian Biallas

Jacob Daghir

Rachel Riley

Devin Zhang

Participants for the 110th annual Custer Contest are Sebastian Biallas, Jacob Daghir, Rachel Riley and Devin Zhang. The oratorical contest began in 1912 for students at the very top of their class who attended all four years at Madison Consolidated High School. For the contest, each student selects a literary passage that can be brought to life on stage without the use of props. The student also chooses a coach to assist in preparation.

Biallas, son of E.J. and Katy Biallas, will perform a selection from "Scythe," a young adult novel by Neal Shusterman. His coach is Ivy Tech professor Jill Koren. Biallas plans to attend Purdue University where he will study mechanical engineering.

Daghir, son of Jacque McDaniel and Jeff Daghir, will recite an excerpt from George Orwell's "1984," a fictional novel published in 1949. Madison Consolidated High School language arts teacher Hannah Oliver is his coach. Daghir plans to attend Purdue University and study electrical engineering.

Rachel Riley, daughter of David and Sharon Riley, has selected an excerpt from "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy" by Douglas Adams, taken from what was originally a 1978 radio comedy broadcast. Madison history teacher Krista Lee is her coach. Riley plans to attend Purdue University and study psychology.

Devin Zhang, son of Yu Jiang and Zu Tian Zhang, has selected Isaac Asimov's short story "The Last Question," a science fiction short story written in 1973. Fine arts director Aaron Kelsey is Devin's coach. Zhang plans to attend the Georgia Institute of Technology where he will major in computer science.

This year's Custer Contest is free with no reservations required, but county guidelines for COVID-19 requiring face masks and social distancing will be followed.

ISP believe Ripley County body now identified

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Indiana State Police now believe they have identified the body of a man found dead Tuesday morning in a rural area of Ripley County just west of Osgood.

Investigators at the Indiana State Police-Versailles Post reached out to the public earlier this week for help in identifying the man based on an overall description — a white male in his 30s or early 40s, approximately 5 feet, 7 inches tall and 160 pounds with brown hair, brown eyes and a beard — as well as a photo of tattoos on his upper right arm.

State Police updated their search on Thursday to say that investigators believe the deceased man has now been identified and they are working to locate his next of kin at this time. The investigation is ongoing.

So far no details have been released on a cause or any circumstances related to the man's death, but an autopsy was to be conducted on Wednesday to determine some of that information.

Anyone with information in the case can call Detective Tracy Rohlfing at the ISP Versailles Post at 812-689-5000.

COVID-19

as a whole is seeing "mild to moderate spread" but the overall numbers are much higher due to an "outbreak in one of our congregate settings."

Previously, it was reported that there were a number of cases at the Jefferson County Jail downtown and even more at the Indiana Department of Correction women's correctional facility on the hilltop. Now, it appears most of those cases are restricted to the state correctional facility.

Jefferson County Sheriff Dave Thomas confirmed Thursday at the county jail had eight cases of COVID-18 about two weeks ago but that the jail currently has no active cases, has cleared quarantine and all prisoners arriving at intake must test negative on a rapid covid test administered on site before being incarcerated.

There have been a total 3,274 confirmed cases of COVID-19 in Jefferson County to date with 81 related deaths. The county's current seven-day average positivity rate is 5.1% and the seven-day positivity for unique individuals is 7.7% — both well below the levels that pushed the county into the Orange. As of Friday, 9,998 Jefferson County residents are fully vaccinated and 11,774 residents have received at least a first dose of COVID vaccine.

Switzerland County has 1,885 fully vaccinated and 2,143 that have received the first dose of a two-dose vaccination series. Switzerland County had no new cases of COVID-19 with a total of 777 positive cases. The total COVID-19 deaths remains at eight. The county's current seven-day average positivity rate is 3.5% and the seven-day positivity for unique individuals is 7.7%.

The Indiana Department of Health announced Friday that 1,494 additional Hoosiers have been diagnosed with COVID-19 through testing at state and private laboratories. That brings to 720,425 the number of Indiana residents now known to have had the novel coronavirus. To date, 12,921 Hoosiers are confirmed to have died from COVID-19, an increase of eight from the previous day.

Indiana now has had 1,884,466 fully vaccinated individuals including 2,344,638 that have received the first dose of a two-dose series. In Kentucky, 1,822,975 Kentuckians have received at least their first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine with 1,400,209 now fully vaccinated.

On April 29, the Kentucky Department of Public Health reported 796 new cases of COVID-19. There have been 443,408 positive cases overall and 6,497 deaths including 10 new deaths, and two additional from new audit deaths.

In information from the North Central District Health Department, Trimble County has reported 698 cases of COVID-19 with nine active cases and overall seven deaths during the pandemic. Carroll County has reported 995 cases of COVID-19 with 19 deaths.

COVID vaccines are continuing to be administered Monday through Friday at the Jefferson County Health Department for those 18 years of age and older. Appointments can be scheduled by visiting www.ourshot.in.gov or by calling 211. Walk-ins are welcome Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 2 p.m.-5 p.m., and Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Vaccine is now eligible to 16 years of age or older. All 16- and 17-year olds must receive a Pfizer vaccine.

Switzerland County Health Department is operating a vaccine clinic at the Switzerland County Technology and Education Center, 708 West Seminary Street, Vevay.

Kentuckians should visit vaccinemap.ky.gov to find a COVID-19 vaccination site near them.

"President Biden is committed to making sure the United States once again leads the world across the board in infrastructure," said Raimondo. "This EDA investment in the city of Carrollton will support local businesses to keep them open and competitive."

"The Economic Development Administration is pleased to support Carrollton's strategy to protect and expand its businesses base," said Dennis Alvord, Acting Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Development. "These infrastructure upgrades will allow for growth and expansion in the local business community to increase the resiliency of the regional economy."

"Critical infrastructure, like gas lines, are a key part of building a strong economic foundation in our commonwealth," said Kentucky Governor Andy Beshear. "We are grateful for the EDA's investment in Carrollton because this project will help attract businesses to the area, encourage economic development and prevent gaps in service when Kentuckians need it most. Ultimately, this funding will help build a stronger Carrollton and a better Kentucky."

The project was made possible by the regional planning efforts led by the Northern Kentucky Area Development District, which EDA funds to bring together the public and private sectors to create an economic development roadmap to strengthen the regional economy, support private capital investment and create jobs.

The City of Carrollton has served as a reseller or transporter of natural gas to local businesses, residents and industry since the 1950s when the local utility connected to the interstate Texas Gas Transmission Corporation pipeline approximately 7 miles west of town.

The city created a utility commission in the mid-1950s and, with the support of Carrollton City Council, has undergone numerous expansions over the last 70 years including the later addition of water and sewer systems. The gas division has 93 miles of steel high pressure main and 74 miles of plastic main providing natural gas to 2,621 services with an annual through-put of 9.3 billion cubic feet.

Carrollton Utilities provides either natural gas, water or sewer service to portions of Carroll, Gallatin, Owen, Henry and Trimble Counties, including the cities of Carrollton, Prestonville, Ghent, Sanders, Worthville, Glencoe, Sparta, Owenton, Campbellsburg and Milton in addition to large industrial customers like CertainTeed Gypsum, Dow Corning, PMC Organometallix, Nucor Steel Gallatin, Kentucky Speedway, North American Stainless and Steel Technologies.

What is Bitcoin? How is it changing the financial world?

Layin' It on the Line

"Most people are clueless about Bitcoin. What does it do? Why is it so valuable? What is blockchain? How does this all affect my own money and retirement?" Steve Dybwad

A brief history

Once relegated to the global financial system's outermost fringes, cryptocurrencies such as Bitcoin and Ethereum have entered the mainstream consciousness in a dramatic and disruptive fashion.

Many of us think of cryptocurrency as new. But the idea of creating a more open and accessible financial system, one with greater privacy and lower costs, dates to the 1980s. Bitcoin was the first viable cryptocurrency, although there had been several previous attempts at designing more private ways to perform financial transactions.

Initially, Bitcoin enthusiasts were a select group of early adopters, mainly programmers and technologists. Computer programmer Hal Finney was the first to download the original bitcoin software in 2009, receiving 10 bitcoins for his trouble.

How does cryptocurrency work?

It would be best if you didn't wind up in the weeds, so I will give only a brief overview of what makes cryptocurrencies tick.

Bitcoin, and alternative cryptocurrencies, are built with something known as blockchain technology.

Concisely defined, a blockchain is a type of digital ledger made up of records known as "blocks." Blockchain software is a decentralized, distributed, typically public database that records transactions across multiple computers. No one can alter blocks on the chain retroactively without changing all the subsequent blocks.

Blockchain isn't limited to financial transactions, either. It also serves as a real-time ledger of things such as contracts and physical assets. Because it is open, anyone in the blockchain can see details of each block. When a block is stamped and encrypted, the only person who can make changes is the person who "owns" that block.

Owners of blocks only gain access to them through a unique private key. When a block is edited, the entire blockchain is updated and synced in real-time.

Banks and corporations are noticing blockchain. Blockchain technology could revolutionize the financial world. It cuts out intermediaries (middlemen), reduces costs, saves time, and provides greater financial privacy. Using blockchain reduces transaction complexity. For example, if you buy stock using blockchain, your transaction is settled in minutes, not hours. You don't need someone else to process your stock purchase.

Also, even though there is no such thing as something that's "hack-proof," blockchain appears to be a lot more secure than anything else available today.

Currently, only about 0.5% of the world is using blockchain technology. However, it's poised to go mainstream very soon. Big banks, insurance and technology companies, and venture capitalists dedicate billions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of employee hours to blockchain projects each year.

Experts estimate that the banking sector alone could save as much as $12 billion annually by switching to the blockchain ledger. Summing it up: Cryptocurrency, based on blockchain technology, has the power to drastically change the way we do business and make even global transactions faster and more seamless.

Cryptocurrency cannot be manipulated or controlled by a central bank like paper currency. It may provide more security and privacy than our current system, and, in many ways, it is more accessible and more democratic. As the technology evolves, transactions on the blockchain will become more straightforward and accessible to ordinary individuals.

If blockchain technology and cryptocurrency interest you, there are many excellent YouTube videos available to give you more in-depth information about this incredible new financial alternative. There are also websites to help you get a handle on the more technical aspects of the blockchain. If you are considering investing in cryptocurrencies, seek advice from a financial professional who has proven blockchain experience.

Are you still confused? Most people are, but recent changes suggest that Bitcoin may be the next "gold" standard that will increase or decrease in value based on its perceived value. The valuation of Bitcoin is based on speculation, and many think that Bitcoin will continue to increase in value. This is not uncommon with other "Bitcoins" of the past; the Dutch Tulip Bulb Craze of the 1600s comes to mind.

One last point, I do not own any cryptocurrency, If you wish to buy bitcoin, a new company that was recently listed on the New York Stock Exchange may be able to help. (Coinbase global). Be careful.

Colts add pass rusher Paye of Michigan in draft

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Kwity Paye just wanted a chance to hear his name called during the NFL draft so he could tell his mother, Agnes, she no longer had to work.

The Indianapolis Colts made it all possible with one call.

General manager Chris Ballard took the highly touted pass rusher from Michigan with the 21st overall pick Thursday night, capping an incredible story that began with Paye's mother fleeing Liberia's civil war near the turn of the century and eventually raising two sons in America.

"It means everything that was my goal my whole life," Paye said shortly after the selection. "Just seeing how hard she worked is what made me work hard. So being able to tell her that she's done (working), it means a lot."

The 6-foot-2, 261-pound Paye could mean a lot for the Colts, too.

Ballard has been looking for a young, consistent pass rusher ever since he took the Indy job following the 2016 season. The need became only greater this year when the Colts opted not to to re-sign last season's two starting defensive ends, Denico Autry and Justin Houston. Autry signed with division rival Tennessee. Houston remains unsigned.

So when Paye slid through the top 20 picks, Ballard ended a three-year run of trading first-round picks.

Indy moved down three spots in 2018 before taking All-Pro guard Quenton Nelson, traded out of the first round in 2019 when they selected cornerback Rock Ya-Sin and sent last year's first-rounder to San Francisco for All-Pro defensive tackle DeForest Buckner. This time, Ballard simply couldn't pass on an impact player living the American dream.

Paye was born in a refugee camp in Guinea before coming to America. Here, he became a citizen and learned how to play football well enough to wind up at Michigan. There, he turned himself into an NFL prospect and on Thursday, the payoff came when NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell announced Paye's name as the Colts' selection.

"I saw the video and I almost got teary-eyed watching it," Ballard said. "His mother, just what a tremendous lady and what she did for her kids and what they went through, she deserves a lot of credit."

Ballard could have gone with Virginia Tech offensive tackle Christian Darrisaw still available as the likely replacement for longtime left tackle Anthony Castonzo, who retired in January.

But with two starting spots open on the defensive line, the greater need was finding someone who could make an immediate impact. Paye fit the bill.

"I've made some pretty easy picks where you just kind of knew and pulling the card for Kwity Paye was very easy," Ballard said. "He stands for everything we want. We think he's got really good upside, we think he's going to get better and we think he's going to add to our (defensive) front."

Paye earned second-team All-Big Ten honors in 2019 when he recorded 50 tackles, 12 for loss and 6 $^1/_2$ sacks in 12 games. Last season, he was named a captain at Michigan and was an honorable mention all-conference selection despite missing two games with injury.

Bengals take LSU receiver Chase with fifth overall pick

BY MITCH STACY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Ja'Marr Chase didn't know if former LSU teammate Joe Burrow was being serious when the quarterback started telling him the Cincinnati Bengals planned to reunite the pair in the NFL.

Chase, the star LSU wide receiver chosen by the Bengals with the fifth overall pick in the NFL draft, said he thought it might actually happen when Burrow texted him Thursday morning and told him to pack his bags.

"I believed him," said Chase, who showed up on the draft stage in Cleveland with Bengals orange shoes, although he insisted that was nothing more than a style choice.

Chase and Burrow won the national championship together at LSU in 2019. Besides a player who will have instant chemistry with his quarterback, the pick gives the Bengals a potent offensive weapon and a legitimate deep threat that has been lacking.

"I'm going to break every record they have," Chase said.

Chase won the Fred Biletnikoff Award as the best receiver in college football in 2019 but opted out of the 2020 season.

In 2019, he set SEC records with 1,780 yards receiving and 20 TDs.

LEGAL NOTICE OF PLANNED IMPROVEMENT
INDOT Des. No. 1802886

The City of Madison with oversight from the Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) and partial funding from the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) intends to proceed with a roadway widening project in the City of Madison, Jefferson County, Indiana (INDOT Des. No. 1802886). The project is located in Sections 15, 16, 21 and 22; Township 4 North, Range 10 East as illustrated on the Clifty Falls Indiana 7.5-minute United States Geological Survey topographic quadrangle.

The purpose of the project is to accommodate a rapidly growing commercial/light industrial area within the City of Madison. The need for the project is due to the increase in truck traffic that utilizes Wilson Avenue. The lack of dedicated turn lanes impedes truck access to the commercial businesses, while also hindering the movement of thru travel.

The proposed improvements will consist of widening Wilson Avenue and providing a center, two-way, left-turn lane (TWLTL). Wilson Avenue will be provided with a two-lane cross-section with travel lanes that vary from 11 ft. to 12 ft. in each direction with a left turn auxiliary lane. The section of Wilson Avenue with 11 ft. travel lanes will have an 11 ft. southbound left-turn lane to Scott Court and the sections with 12 ft. proposed travel lanes will have a 14 ft. center TWLTL. The travel lanes will be bordered by a 5 ft. bike lane followed by a 2 ft. curb and gutter on each side of the roadway for the length of the project. The proposed overall cross-section will provide right-of-way and drainage improvements for the future construction of a planned 6 ft. sidewalk adjacent to the back of curb.

An existing southbound right-turn lane serving an industrial property, north of the railroad crossing will be maintained. The northbound passing blisters on the east side of Wilson Avenue will be eliminated since the project will provide the 14 ft. TWLTL through this area of the project. The rail line crossing will be widened to 2 ft. behind the back of the curb and gutter. There will be no improvements to the intersections of Industrial Drive/Scott Court or JA Berry Lane/West Hutchinson Lane. The total project length is approximately 2,910 ft. (0.551 mile). Construction is anticipated to begin in early Fall 2023 and continue through the Fall of 2024. The cost of construction is estimated at $1,662,870.00.

Traffic will be maintained on Wilson Avenue and a detour will not be necessary. Wilson Avenue will be reduced to one travel lane utilizing phased construction during work hours. Travel will alternate directions as the construction progresses along the corridor. Access to all residential and commercial properties will be maintained during construction.

The project will require approximately 4.84 acres of new, additional permanent right-of-way and 0.04 acre of temporary right-of-way. Approximately 4.48 acres of the permanent right-of-way consists of maintained lawn adjacent to the businesses located along both sides of Wilson Avenue. Approximately 0.36 acre consists of residential land, near the northern project termini. The temporary right-of-way is required for driveway reconstruction and lawn grading adjacent to the commercial parcels.

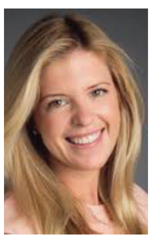
What do you do?



ANNIE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I have been married to my husband for 15 years. During that time, I have had several retail and grocery store jobs. Currently, I do not work because most retail and grocery store jobs have me working nights and weekends, and when doing that, I hardly ever see my husband, since he works long hours and travels.

When we first met, I owned my own house, had savings and no debt and was working as a waitress. I had the same amount of money going into the marriage as he did. My husband makes good money, and I am really good at budgeting and saving. So our current arrangement works fine for us. My problem is that when I'm introduced to people and they ask what I do, I'm not sure what to say. I can't say I am a stay-at-home mom because we have no children.

I now try to avoid meeting new people because most of the time it goes badly. Where I live, people are networking all the time so it is common for them to ask where I work within the first few minutes of meeting me. Before, when I told people I worked in retail, some made condescending remarks. My husband's family has consistently snubbed me because of the retail and waitressing jobs I've had and my lack of a college degree. What should I say? — Unemployed and Uncomfortable

Dear Unemployed: When people ask what you do, tell them what you do — your hobbies and passions — and don't shy away from sharing your work history. There's nothing wrong with working in retail. An office job does not make someone a better person: for proof, just look at your in-laws, who, despite all their college degrees, sound pretty darn ignorant.

Dear Annie: This is in response to "Regretful Mom," who says she was a neglectful mother and her adult children cut her out of their lives. Depression is a very serious problem, but can be overcome with self-reflection and a determination that life can be more joyful and happy. Brain chemistry can be changed with a change in diet, exercise, changing thought processes and with the knowledge that God loves you and wants you to be healthy mentally, emotionally and physically.

Forty years ago I suffered from depression because of a failed marriage and an overwhelming feeling that I would never be happy again. Before marriage, I had been happy, so what had changed? I grew up with a strong sense of God's presence in my life but years of negative emotions and feelings of worthlessness took its toll.

I changed my diet, started taking vitamin B complex for stress, exercised and did yoga regularly, went back to church and surrounded myself with positive people, thoughts and the things I loved and needed. Gradually, I worked my way out of my depression. It won't happen overnight, but little by little, "Regretful" will become an example of positive behavior for her children, and they may come back around. She needs to get busy making new memories and a great life for herself and her children. — Blessed and Happy Woman

Dear Blessed: These are all wonderful tips for improving one's mood and overall health, alongside the counsel of a doctor.

Parenting amends

ANNIE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I have a daughter and a son, who are now 27 and 30, respectively. I have always tried to be a good mother to both of them. But somehow, my daughter was always the lovable one. My son always rubbed me the wrong way, and I scolded him much more and was much stricter with him. I wanted my children to be independent and be able to care for themselves. I guess I pushed my son more than my daughter.

My son was always the angry one, picking on his younger sister. Over the years, I tried several times to ask him why and get him to talk. He never did. Yesterday, he confessed that he was bullied as a child; his father and I never knew and so never did anything about it. He also said that he felt I never loved him as I did his sister.

I told him how sorry I was for what he went through and admitted that I treated him differently, something I never should have done but could not control. He told me he does not hate me, which is what I always felt. What other advice do you have for me to make amends? — Helpless

Dear Helpless: Loving one child more than the other most certainly qualifies as a mistake. Everyone makes mistakes; welcome to being a human. It's great that you now know better and are trying to do better with your son by taking ownership of your mistakes and assuring him of your love. You might want to seek the help of a professional therapist to better understand why you had a more difficult time with your son. The more you understand yourself, the more you can share with him. You can also let him know that your parenting style had nothing to do with him and everything to do with what you were dealing with as a mother.

Dear Annie: I am a 74-year-old woman. I have two sisters, both of whom are older than me. I just had a heart attack in February. Since then, I have not heard from either one. Not even a hello. I'm not asking for sympathy, but they don't even ask how I am doing. It has been hard at times. I am going to cardiac rehab, which I know will help in time.

The thing that bothers me the most is that I see them on Facebook sending comments to others who are ill. And birthday wishes. I have sent them birthday wishes and called or sent get well wishes. What should I do? — Feeling Hurt

Dear Hurt: I'm glad you are on the mend and taking the necessary steps to better your health. Sometimes we are looking for sympathy, love and kindness from others when we really need to give all of that to ourselves. Be kind to yourself and your body first. Then call your sisters and tell them how much you miss them.

POP sets information sessions on school vouchers

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Shawe High School and Pope John Elementary will host three evening sessions for current families and potential new families wanting to learn more about the state's recent expansion of the School Choice Voucher program.

According to Prince of Peace Catholic Schools President Philip J. Kahn, the state's expansion of school choice vouchers will allow many more families to qualify for an estimated voucher of $5,400 per child. A family of four could quality if their adjusted gross income is under $147,000. The numbers are approximate until officially confirmed by the state.

The sessions are titled "Your Child, Your Choice," and will be held at the Pope John Cafeteria and anyone interested in hearing if they may qualify based on the new expanded income guidelines may attend.

The sessions will run from 5:30 to 7 p.m. on May 4, 11 and 18 and visitors may drop by at any time to get more information and meet with a school representative. Those who are new to the schools and would like a tour of the facilities may do that at that time or call for an appointment at 812-273-5835.

Shawe inducts new honor society members

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

The Sr. Thomasita Hayes Chapter of the National Junior Honor Society at Shawe Memorial Jr/Sr High School recently inducted 24 new members from the classes of 2024 and 2025.

To be considered for membership, a student must achieve a cumulative GPA of at least a 3.33. Members are charged with upholding the five qualities that serve as standards for the society: scholarship, service, leadership, character, and citizenship.

"These are obviously lofty goals and very few students go through their time here at Shawe without faltering in one of these areas. Congratulations to those who are inducted and stay in good standing. It is a true accomplishment and I am proud that our chapters of these clubs are as large as they are," said Principal Curt Gardner.

The new members include: A'Riann Geyman, Ava Armbrecht, Elizabeth Zigan, Aubree Turnbull, Francisco Orantes-Rodriguez, Nicholas Schultz, Allie Riedel, Avery Clayton, Shannon Cooke, Jennifer Avalos, Jade Cox, Ashley Dean, Julia Leatherman, Allison Knoebel, Ava Turner, Lakyn Tingle, Humberto Cabrales, Samuel Fewell, Jacob Minnick, Philip Kahn III, Megan Morrison, Kelly McClure, Cora Wieczorek and Tyler Hill.

The school also recently inducted 16 new members of the sophomore class into the Fr. Michael Shawe Honor Society. To be considered for membership, a student must achieve a cumulative GPA of at least a 3.5 and uphold the same five qualities as the Hayes Chapter honorees.

"We are very proud of this group of students who have exceeded in so many areas academically, but also on the personal side of all areas. These students go above and beyond, and it is nice to recognize them for such great accomplishments. The criteria and evaluation is very challenging at Shawe Memorial and the students and their families should be proud," Gardner said.

The new members include: Emma Clark, Joseph Doran, Brady Jackson, Hunter Henderson, Dymphna Doran, Davis Grote, Lauren Grote, Tyus Stowe, Kimberly Ortiz, Emmaline Leatherman, Sophie Whitham, Carson Cooke, Mariana Perez, Sophia Ho, Nicole Spencer, Abigail Stewart and Lauren Knoebel.

experiences had prepared him. "Take every experience as a lesson learned for a future endeavor."

Hunt, a 1973 graduate, founded SuperATV in 2003 out of his garage and the company now employs more than 300 in Madison. "Madison High School really gave me a start in life," said Hunt, who encouraged students to pursue their passions.

Black, a 1970 graduate, was executive director of the Lide White Boys and Girls Club from 1984-2018. He encouraged students to never give up no matter the challenge and to seek out people who will inspire them to do good. "The way to be a class in life is to surround yourself with those who are a class and good people."

Eades, a 1966 graduate, is an innovator who along with others helped design an apparatus to safely disarm land mines. He also helped bring automation to the brake pad industry to facilitate identification and sorting. Locally, he was cited for his 20 years as a scoutmaster for Boy Scout troop 717 and his guidance of local youth. Eades specifically credited Madison Consolidated Schools educators Roger Gallatin and Paul "Duke" Meyer, both former Cub head football coaches, for their influence. "I was blessed to have two coaches who totally cared if I succeeded," Eades said.

Cope, a 1964 graduate, is a former Madison school board member who was cited for her heart and commitment to helping students of Madison Consolidated Schools, both academically and personally. "Doors opened to me because I had an education at Madison Consolidated High School," she said.

Nay, a 1983 graduate, is president and owner of Morgan and Nay Funeral Centre in Madison and Hanover. "There are many teachers in this high school who made me who I am today," said Nay. "They encouraged me to rise and move forward."

The Hall of Fame was established in 2019 with an inaugural class that included Bob Canida, Al Huntington and Wayne Perry. Huntington, a 1963 graduate, was mayor of Madison from 1994-2008. Perry, a 1968 graduate, was Hanover College head football coach from 1982-2007. Canida, a 1967 graduate, is a Madison dentist who was cited for his humanitarian efforts to help others through his involvement in organizations both locally and globally.

The event, held in Connor K. Salm Gymasium, was attended by the student body along with family and friends of the inductees. Studebaker said it was the first MCHS student body gathering since the COVID-19 pandemic.
